PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

Christopher Sharman is a respected authority on China's military maritime development and Indo-Pacific security. As Director of the Naval War College's China Maritime Studies Institute (CMSI) — the U.S. government's dedicated research center on China's military maritime modernization — he leads a team of world-renowned scholars who analyze Chinese-language open-source materials to produce insights that inform the nation's most senior civilian and military decision-makers.

His expertise is grounded in over three decades of firsthand experience at the intersection of naval operations, diplomacy, and intelligence across the Indo-Pacific. A retired U.S. Navy Captain, he has served in forward-deployed operational billets in Japan, as a defense attaché in both Beijing and Hanoi, and as a senior strategist at the Office of the Director of National Intelligence. He is a prolific author, Congressional witness, and sought-after voice in international media on China's naval ambitions, Taiwan Strait dynamics, and the strategic implications of China's expanding global maritime presence.

CURRENT POSITION

Director, China Maritime Studies Institute (CMSI)

November 2023 – Present

U.S. Naval War College | Newport, Rhode Island

Leading the Naval War College's dedicated research center on China's maritime military development, directing a team of world-renowned scholars who analyze Chinese-language open-source materials to produce analysis that informs senior U.S. decision-makers — including the National Security Council, National Intelligence Council, and Congress.

- Directs multiple CMSI publication series on China's modernization in the military maritime domain, Indo-Pacific security dynamics, and the strategic implications of China's expanding global military maritime presence — all freely accessible to the public
- Hosted the 2025 CMSI Conference on the human dimensions of China's navy — an invitation-only gathering of leading experts examining PLA Navy recruitment, training, career progression, and retention
- Launched the CMSI Quarterly Review — a new publication series featuring translated Chinese-language military maritime articles and Director's analysis (3 issues, 2025)
- Serves as Associate Professor, Naval War College

MILITARY CAREER

Thirty years as a U.S. Navy active-duty intelligence officer — from forward-deployed carrier operations in Japan to diplomatic postings in Beijing and Hanoi, from combat deployments in Iraq to advising the White House National Security Council on East Asia policy. The career highlights below represent the most significant billets in a distinguished career spanning operational, diplomatic, intelligence, and strategic domains.

Senior Strategist & Deputy Director, National Intelligence Manager for East Asia 2020 – 2023

Office of the Director of National Intelligence (ODNI)

- Served as the Intelligence Community's senior strategist for East Asia, advising the Director of National Intelligence and representing the IC at National Security Council and White House interagency policy meetings at the Senior Executive Service (SES) level
- Led the IC's strategic response during the Speaker of the House's visit to Taiwan (2022) and the Taiwan President's transit of the United States (2023), synchronizing efforts across all 18 Intelligence Community agencies
- Led a cross-functional team analyzing intelligence production data across the IC, resulting in multi-million dollar resource realignments to close critical intelligence gaps
- Orchestrated a major East Asia conference bringing together senior NSC, interagency, and IC leadership, producing initiatives that shaped IC priorities for years
- Strengthened bilateral and multilateral intelligence partnerships to maximize combined capabilities on the most challenging East Asia security issues

National Security Affairs Fellow

2019 – 2020

Stanford University's Hoover Institution

Competitively selected as a National Security Affairs Fellow at one of the nation's most respected policy research institutions on the Stanford University campus. Conducted original research on U.S. maritime strategy in the South China Sea, China's military maritime activities, the U.S.-Vietnam naval relationship, and the efficacy of soft power in the Indo-Asia-Pacific. Produced multiple publications during the fellowship year. Recipient of the 2021 Alfred Thayer Mahan Award for Literary Achievement for work produced during this period.

Navy Attaché, U.S. Embassy Hanoi

2016 – 2019

Vietnam

- Orchestrated every aspect of the first U.S. aircraft carrier visit to Vietnam in over 50 years — a milestone diplomatic and military event involving more than 6,000 personnel that opened the door to deeper, ongoing bilateral military cooperation
- Systematically built strategic relationships that enabled the U.S. Navy to increase the frequency of ship visits to Vietnam, strengthening trust and expanding military ties in a region where China's maritime assertiveness makes every partnership consequential
- Coordinated four humanitarian missions involving 9-nations and 2,500-sailor, delivering 250 medical, disaster relief, engineering, and community engagement events across Vietnam

M.S. Student, National War College

2014 – 2015

National Defense University | Washington, D.C.

Distinguished Graduate. Recipient of the National Defense University President's Award for Excellence in Writing (2015). Recipient of the 2016 Alfred Thayer Mahan Award for Literary Achievement for work produced during this period.

Deputy Director of Intelligence (N2), U.S. Seventh Fleet

2012 – 2014

USS Blue Ridge (LCC-19) | Japan-based Forward Deployed Naval Forces

- Managed the Intelligence Directorate for the U.S. Navy's largest numbered fleet, providing analysis to the Seventh Fleet Commander on military and political developments across 36 Indo-Pacific maritime nations — including the world's five largest armed forces
- Led a 70-person intelligence directorate and coordinated with intelligence elements across six subordinate task forces
- Designed and implemented a new federated intelligence collection strategy spanning more than 30 ships and 100 aircraft, sharpening focus and improving collaboration across the Pacific intelligence enterprise
- Stood up a real-world 24/7 five-section intelligence watch by overseeing the qualification and training of 45 watch standers

Assistant Navy Attaché, U.S. Embassy Beijing

2009 – 2012

China | DoD Attaché of the Year, 2010–2011

- Served as a senior U.S. Navy representative in China, advising the U.S. Ambassador and country team on defense and security matters while maintaining direct working relationships with the Chinese Ministry of National Defense and the People's Liberation Army Navy (PLAN)
- Produced strategic, operational, and tactical reporting on China's military developments that directly informed national-level U.S. foreign policy and defense strategy toward China
- Managed numerous high-level military exchange visits, facilitating new bilateral agreements and communication channels
- Built an extensive network of international defense attachés and regional partners, generating a multifaceted picture of China's military capabilities and intentions

Defense Intelligence Agency

2006 – 2008

Served in intelligence analysis and strategy roles, including a deployment to Baghdad, Iraq in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom.

U.S. Army Command and General Staff College

2005 – 2006

Completed joint professional military education. Formally designated as a Strategist by the U.S. Army.

USS Kitty Hawk (CV-63)

2003 – 2005

Japan-based Forward Deployed Naval Forces

Intelligence officer assigned to the Japan-based strike group, participating in major combat operations in Iraq.

Joint Intelligence Center Pacific (JICPAC)

2000 – 2003

Served as China Advisor to the PACOM Commander during the 2001 EP-3 crisis — one of the most serious U.S.-China military confrontations of the post-Cold War era.

Naval Postgraduate School & Defense Language Institute

1997 – 2000

Completed M.A. in National Security Affairs at the Naval Postgraduate School. Graduated from the Defense Language Institute, Japanese (2000).

USS Independence (CV-62)

1994 – 1996

Japan-based Forward Deployed Naval Forces

Intelligence officer assigned to the carrier air wing embarked aboard USS Independence, stationed off the coast of Taiwan during the 1995–1996 China-Taiwan Crisis.
