

CIWAG Hosts Academic Workshop On Maritime Irregular Warfare June 2019

CIWAG hosted a Maritime Irregular Warfare Workshop on 25-26 June, 2019. The invited U.S. and international academics discussed the strategic and operational challenges associated with irregular warfare in the maritime domain. Participating scholars presented proposals for CIWAG's new maritime focused case studies series. The first cases in the new "Maritime Irregular Warfare Studies" series will be released in late 2019.

Case Study Proposals:

- | | |
|-------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------|
| • Geoffrey Till, Ph.D. | Sea Tigers – A Model for Irregular Operations at Sea |
| • Andrew Norris, CAPT, USCG (Ret) | Irregular Uses of Unmanned Maritime Systems |
| • Lawson Brigham, Ph.D. | The Russian Maritime Arctic |
| • Claude Berube, Ph.D. | Sea Shepherd—Responses to Global Challenges |
| • Rebecca Pincus, Ph.D. | Irregular Warfare in the Arctic Islands |
| • Kerry Lynn Nankivell, Ph.D. (Candidate) | Countering Coercion: Role of Strategic Culture |
| • Gary Schaub, Jr., Ph.D. | Responses to Hybrid Maritime Warfare |
| • Timothy Hoyt, Ph.D. | Role of Seapower – Islands, Insurgents & Interaction |

The Center on Irregular Warfare and Armed Groups (CIWAG) at the U.S. Naval War College was created in 2008 to ensure that education and research on irregular warfare remains timely and easily accessible to military officers and their interagency counterparts who devise strategies for dealing with armed groups around the world.

www.usnwc.edu/ciwag

